

Up Front: Transition of Editorial Leadership at JPSW

by Michael Nagy, PharmD, BCACP

After two and a half years of dedicated leadership and editorial excellence, The Journal of the Pharmacy Society of Wisconsin (JPSW) is announcing a significant transition. As of May 1, 2025, the role of Pharmacist Editor will pass from me to Kate Rotzenberg, PharmD. This change marks an exciting new chapter for JPSW, ensuring the continuation of high-quality content, innovative ideas, and impactful contributions to the pharmacy community in Wisconsin and beyond.

Reflecting on 2.5 Years of Growth and Innovation

Looking back over the past two and a half years, JPSW has experienced remarkable growth and transformation. Under my editorial leadership (and that of Amanda Margolis, PharmD, MS, BCACP, before me), The Journal has expanded its reach, enhanced its digital presence, and continued its tradition of publishing insightful articles that inform and inspire pharmacy professionals statewide.

It has been an incredible honor to serve as the Pharmacist Editor of JPSW. Collaborating with an enthusiastic team of authors, reviewers, and the Pharmacy Society of Wisconsin (PSW) staff has been deeply rewarding. Together, we have celebrated the accomplishments of Wisconsin pharmacists, advanced clinical knowledge, and promoted impactful practices within our profession.

Gratitude to Those Who Made It Possible

The journey of an editor is supported by a network of dedicated individuals whose hard work and expertise ensure the quality and integrity of every issue. I extend a heartfelt thank you to Megan Grant, whose unwavering support was essential to The Journal's success. Megan's commitment and meticulous diligence have been pivotal. Her efforts behind the scenes ensured each publication was polished and engaging.

A sincere thank you also goes out to the PSW members, whose enthusiasm and feedback have driven The Journal. Members are at the heart of all the works captured within JPSW. It has been a privilege to provide you all with relevant, evidence-based content.

Recognition and appreciation are extended to the peer reviewers, whose expertise and evaluations uphold the journal's standards. Their selfless dedication to reviewing manuscripts has been vital to maintaining the integrity and impact of JPSW.

The Editorial Advisory Committee has been an invaluable source of guidance, vision, and support. Their strategic insights have helped shape The Journal's direction and ensure its relevance to the evolving landscape of pharmacy practice.

Lastly, I express deep gratitude to the PSW staff. Their collaboration and behind-the-scenes efforts have been instrumental in ensuring that each issue reaches the hands of our dedicated readers.

Welcoming Dr. Kate Rotzenberg

As JPSW embarks on its next chapter, I am thrilled to welcome Kate as the incoming Pharmacist Editor. Dr. Rotzenberg brings a wealth of experience, a deep commitment to advancing pharmacy practice, and meticulous attention to detail. With a strong background in clinical practice, research project management, and education as a faculty member at the University of Wisconsin-Madison School of Pharmacy, she is poised to lead JPSW into an exciting future.

A Fond Farewell and Continued Support

As I pass the editorial baton, there is confidence that JPSW is in excellent hands. Leaving this role is bittersweet. I am immensely grateful for the opportunity I was granted and what we have accomplished together and am excited to see how Dr. Rotzenberg will shape the future of JPSW. I remain committed to supporting The Journal and the PSW in any way I can.

This transition is not merely a change in leadership but a celebration of continuity and growth. The unwavering dedication of JPSW's community—its authors, reviewers, readers, and staff—ensures that The Journal will continue to thrive and inspire.

Final Words of Gratitude

As this chapter concludes in my professional career, I extend one final word of gratitude to everyone who has contributed to my JPSW's journey. My deepest thanks go to Megan Grant and Amanda Margolis and the entire PSW staff for your invaluable support and hard work. Most importantly, thank you to our PSW members for trusting JPSW as your source of knowledge and inspiration.

Please join me in congratulating Dr. Rotzenberg. I look forward to the continued success of JPSW and its ongoing impact on pharmacy practice in Wisconsin.

The JPSW Journey Continues—Together

Michael Nagy a Clinical Pharmacist is the Pharmacist Editor of The Journal of the Pharmacy Society of Wisconsin.

Corresponding Author:
Michael Nagy - mnagy@pswi.org